

The Truth

verse 1:

It's a fragile bridge that you just crossed back from god knows where I only know what brought you back not what took you there what you've done and where you've been is a mountain I can't move I don't think that I can take the truth chorus:

I don't need to know the scenario the story ends right here my forgiveness won't depend on some excuse so let your silence keep my love alive cause a lie I'd see right through and I don't think that I can take the truth

verse 2

I curse my unconditional heart cause it wont let me quit I know if I could just stay blind I'd get over it so don't say a word while you hold me I deserve that much from you cause I don't think that I can take the truth
